

M'LOUGHLIN AND BUNDY FOR THE DAVIS CUP

National Champion and Doubles Champions asked to Go to England to Compete in the Trials — America Surely to Be Represented

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(Source: E. McLaughlin and Thomas C. Bundy, the California lawn tennis players, holders of national singles and doubles titles, have been asked to prepare for the Davis cup single and double matches.

These contests probably will be held during July in England, as that country now holds possession of the trophy. McLaughlin probably will be able to make the trip, but Bundy is not so sure about his ability to spare the time required. In case they compete they will meet the most famous players in the world.

England will be able to put in the field a team stronger than the one with which they captured the trophy. France will have DeCuis, Laurens and Gobert, who figure among the ten strongest players of the world, and Germany will send Fritz Helm and Rabe, who are in the same class with the French players.

Australia will be able to make a great bid for the honors once more, as Brooks already has arranged to take in all the leading English tournaments this year and willing is on the ground now.

Both McLaughlin and Bundy are ranked among the ten strongest international players by the best English tennis critics, who recently have been trying to figure out the men entitled to places in that list. Outside the champions in singles and doubles, the other players ranked are a strong set of representatives.

In singles Melville Long ranks as No. 2 and when at his best is probably the equal of any player in the country. Long won the first clay court championship of the United States at Omaha in 1910, and the eastern experts who took part in that event declared that on that occasion he would have beaten any tennis player in the world.

Johnston and Dawson, respectively Nos. 3 and 4, are the youngsters of the district. Each has gained the championship of his section through open tournament play and each figures to improve still more with experience.

In the doubles ranking are teams which gave Bundy and McLaughlin harder contests than they met during their eastern tour in which they captured the national championship.

CONFERENCES ABOUT BISHOP BUILDING

Two sessions were held yesterday by the trustees of the Bishop Estate in conference with Architect Traphagen over the projected business block for the plot opposite the Young Hotel. There are a score or so of factors to be taken into consideration, before definite plans can be reached, according to one of the trustees.

Asked about a report that E. O. Hall & Son had presented a statement of the floor space it would require in the building, the trustees said that no such statement had been submitted to the meeting nor was on file in the office.

AMATEURS TO APPEAR AT POPULAR TONIGHT

Tonight in conjunction with "The Gay Widow" at the Popular Theater which has been packing the cosy little theater for the past two nights there will be a big amateur program.

This while it is called an amateur night will be in reality a professional try-out night, which is very popular on the coast and in which some of the best vaudeville talent is secured.

There are several aspiring "vaudevillians" in Honolulu who will positively appear at the Popular tonight. The performance will start at 7 o'clock sharp and there will be two shows the second show starting at 9 o'clock.

Prominent members of the senior class at Wesleyan University were expelled for spending a too "profitable" hour in chapel—betting on the length of the leader's prayer.

CHINESE AVIATOR WANTS TO FLY OVER HARBOR

The people of Honolulu probably will be given their first opportunity to witness an exhibition of hydroplaning during the latter part of next month. Tom D. Gunn, the young Chinese aviator who has done sensational flying in the east and along the Pacific Coast, has written to the local branch of the Tong Mung Revolutionary Society saying he expects to stop here late in March on his way to China, and that he would like to make several flights during his brief stay.

If Tom Gunn comes and weather conditions are right there is no question but that he will give an exhibition, and that the people will not be treated to another force, such as alleged to have been perpetrated at Kapiolani Park several months ago by a Japanese.

Gunn, although only about twenty-three years of age, already has established a national reputation by his sensational work. Stories of his flights have been published in the eastern magazines, and only recently he was shown in actual flight in a moving picture displayed at one of the local playhouses.

Gunn contemplates going on through to China, where he is to take up a school of aviation for the new Republic government, and to assume charge of the aviation business from a commercial standpoint. It is understood that a company backed by large capital has been formed to promote the latter enterprise among his countrymen.

He is bringing, he says, three aeroplanes and a hydroplane, and if conditions on the Honolulu harbor permit even to give a demonstration of hydroplaning, skimming along the waves, alighting and rising from them.

Letter, inquiring concerning the prospects for an exhibition here, was received last week by Ng Ung Sing, secretary of the Tong Mung and editor of the Liberty News. The society has replied favorably and another communication, saying when he expects to sail from San Francisco, is expected next week.

CROSS COUNTRY THE BIG THING

The next big athletic event of the season is the interscholastic cross-country run, for which all the schools in the league are now preparing. The event is to come off Saturday afternoon, over some course not yet announced by the committee.

The four schools that will take part in the cross-country are Punahou, Kamehameha, McKinley and Mills. Two of these schools, Punahou and Kamehameha, have competed before and consequently it is possible that one of these schools will win again this year as the men know just how to train for the run. Mills and the High School are doing good practice work, however, and it is very likely that they will be heard from in the coming run.

The cross-country is one of the big events of the year and announces the beginning of the track season. Last year the race was not given much attention but this year all the schools in the interscholastic league with the exception of St. Louis are showing great interest in the run and it is certain to be a big thing.

Horine, World Famous Running High Jumper, May Quit Game

SAN FRANCISCO.—It now looks as if another famous athlete will be missing from the ranks next season. The latest one to announce his retirement from active competition is George Horine, the world's champion running high jumper. The Leland Stanford Jr. university student declares he is tired of the sport and will rest on his laurels. Horine considered the greatest running high jumper that ever lived. Last March when he jumped 6 feet 6 1/4 inches breaking the record of Mike Sweeney of 6 feet 5 3/4 inches made in New York Sept. 21, 1895. It was considered a remarkable performance. Experts thought the jump would never be equalled. A few months later Horine jumped 6 feet 8 inches, but was not accepted by the officials of the Amateur Athletic union. Horine's showing in the Olympic games last summer was a disappointment. After returning from Stockholm he declared that he was stale at the time and was unable to do his best.

OLD BALL PLAYERS PULLED GOOD ONES

BASEBALL OF YEARS ago compared favorably with the game of today in tricky plays and fast thinking. Captain Anson and Tim Lincecum, players of the seventies, have always held this, and now E. H. Wood of Chicago, a substitute umpire in the National League during the early eighties, claims the same thing.

"I remember when only the catcher wore a glove," said Wood recently. "I was in St. Louis at the time, and I was considered baby work to use a glove in any other position. This made the game a matter of heroic endeavor. The glove used by the backstop wasn't anything like the one employed today. It compared rather with the old fashioned cricket glove with little protection for the hand, but re-enforced with heavy strips of leather at the finger tips.

"We umpires had to be mighty careful, too, or these catchers would slip something over on us. The clever backstops used to have a trick of extending their glove hand an inch or so ahead of their bare mitt. The ball, striking the hard pieces of leather, would make a sound not unlike a foul tip.

"As foul tips were out then, no matter how many strikes the batter had on him, we had to be mighty wary or a clever catcher might get us asleep and clear an out on a foul tip when really the batter hadn't even touched the ball."

Wood is a great admirer of Tim Lincecum, whom he calls the greatest umpire and fielder who ever lived. They never officiated together, as Wood pre-dated Lincecum, but they have been close friends for many years. Wood tells a few stories about Tim which might be interesting.

"Hurst went along on his wit and his nerve," said Wood. "Tim had them combined to a fine edge, and no ball player ever got the best of him on either point. Tim had it in for the grouchy player—couldn't tolerate him. When he was umpiring behind a pitcher who kept arguing and complaining on balls and strikes he lasted about fifteen minutes or less.

"Aw, come on, Hurst!" the pitcher would snarl. "Gimme the corners any way, won't ye?" "Hurst's slow grin would appear, and he would say: 'Why, you don't dare to put the ball near the plate, you big dub. If you did that fellow could hit you with a lead pencil.' This generally got the pitcher's goat. "Or perhaps Tim would be officiating behind the plate and the batter would be sore at him. Hurst might exclaim something like this: 'Say, Bill, I hear that young fellow who's after your job is a dandy.' Then when the batter was turning around to growl at Tim the pitcher would likely slip over a strike. This didn't help the batter's mind any, and you can rest assured he soon let up.

"Many a time a player would go up to Hurst and beg off. 'I'll quit if you do, Tim,' he would say. Many second basemen will tell you how a would-be stealer would get mad when Hurst called him out on a close play. Like as not the umpire would out with a remark like this: 'Why, say, you haven't got the sense of feeling. You haven't touched the base even yet.' Then, turning to the second baseman, he would exclaim: 'Punch in a couple of his ribs next time he slides, Jim. Then he'll know he's out!' Such remarks are characteristic of the man."

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Feb. 3.—Joe Mandet of New Orleans was awarded a decision over Mickey Sheridan of Chicago in an eight-round bout here tonight. In the first four rounds honors were about even, but after that the superior generalship of the New Orleans fighter gave him the advantage. Sheridan fought gamely and shook his opponent several times with lefts to the jaw.

FRANK CHANCE TO HAVE HIS WORK CUT OUT

BY TOMMY CLARK

How will Frank Chance fare out as a manager of the New York Americans next season? Will he be a big success of a flat failure? These questions are now being asked by the fans. There is no doubt about Chance having the ability to handle a team, as his record as leader of the Chicago Cubs will prove, but what about the material he will have to handle next season? Coming down to cards and spades, there are just four ball players with the Yankees on whom Chance will have to depend for the nucleus of a winning combination. The youngsters that come next spring hoping to fill the weak spots will be a secondary consideration.

The four real ball players with the New York Americans are Hal Chase, Harry Wolter, Russel Ford and Birdie Cree.

This makes but little good material on the New York team, and, no matter how capable Chance may be, he cannot make a bad ball club a good one by the application of all the strategy in the game. Barring Chase, he will have a rather mediocre infield, made up of Hartzell, Derrick and perhaps Cree, who is to be shifted from the outfield. There is not an infield in the league which is not superior to this combination, and a weak infield is the greatest handicap a team can have. The best way for Chance to show his ability as a manager next season will be to do a lot of experimenting and try to build up a team. If he improves conditions during the three years that his contract has to run he will more than make good.

But it may be that Chance will receive aid from the American league. Rumor has it that there is to be concerted action on the part of the other clubs to place a winner in New York. Such material as other clubs can spare, and it does not mean those that are ready for the majors, is to be sent to Chance. Lajoie, for instance, it is said, may be found casting around second base for the Highlanders next season.

Cleveland has about tired of the big Frenchman and would consider any reasonable proposition for him. This would help the situation some, and if a little help is given by all clubs Chance may have a fair ball team before the season is over, but there is no getting away from the fact that he needs help and lots of it.

It will be interesting next season to watch how Hal Chase plays under Chance. Chase has the exalted opinion that no one can tell him how to play the bag. True, he is a great first baseman, but Chance was also great at the initial station. He surely will suggest several things about team play to the Peerless Hal. And the what? Will Hal listen, jump in and do some great team work or will he be cut? Ever since he has been a member of the Yanks Chase has been under the impression that he is as great as the manager, but in Chance he will meet a master mind in baseball.

BRITISH GOLF CRACKS WILL INVADE AMERICA

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Prof. Robert W. Watson of the United States Golf association confirms the reports that he had received a cablegram from Edward Ray and Harry Vardon, the great British golfers, that they would visit the United States this season if the date of the open championship of the United States were changed from June 4 and 5 to September 17 and 18. Ray is now the open champion of Great Britain, and Vardon was the runner-up to him at Muirfield last summer. Vardon divided with James Braid the honor, having won the British open five times.

Schofield Mecca For Boxing Fans

Honolulu ring fans are on edge for the bouts at Schofield Barracks this evening, and the indications are that the special trial which is scheduled to leave the city at 7:50 will be well filled. The train will stop at Jones Station, five minutes' walk from the infantry amusement hall, where the mills will be staged, and will pull out from the same station on the return trip a few minutes after the main event is decided.

Bauesock and Kilsner, who will go the 15-round route as the star attraction of the evening, are both in first-class condition, and the fight should be a fast one throughout. The showing that Kilsner made against Allen a few weeks ago indicated that he had improved considerably, and there is plenty of money around the post ready to back his chances. If the fight goes to a decision the ruling is sure to be a just one, for Major Butts, of the Twenty-fifth Infantry, himself an experienced boxer, will referee.

The preliminaries, announced in full in yesterday's paper, promise first-class sport. Tickets will be on sale at M. A. Gunst & Co. up to this evening.

HAWAII TO PLAY TENNIS WITH MAUI

[Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence.]

HILO, Feb. 10.—Tennis was in full swing at Honokaa on Sunday last and practically the whole day was taken up in a number of matches, the event of the day being the play for the E. O. Hall cup, which was brought back to Hilu by the local challengers, who defeated the holders, Messrs. McKensie and Fraser for Honokaa, in the three sets. The weather was perfect and the tennis players from Oloa to Kohala were present to witness the match and then take part in sets which kept up the interest for the remainder of the day.

From the manner in which the first game of the challenge match was played, it looked as though the cup would remain in Honokaa. The challenging team, Irwin Scott and Conness, both were wild, and failed to make any showing, being only able to score one point. Then the tables were turned, and the Hilu people took the set without losing a game, though many contests went to deuce. Scott was inclined to be wild on his drives from the back court, but the Honokaa men lobbed short continually and gave opportunity for net smashes which counted for points when badly needed.

The second set was very interesting. Game after game went to deuce and after sharp rallies the Honokaa players generally won till they had a score of 5-2. At this point Scott commenced hard driving into the back court while Conness covered the net and by a series of sharp attacks first 7-5, winding up with a love game on Scott's serve. The third and final set brought out the best tennis of the match and there were a number of long, hard rallies, with some quick and spectacular work at the net on both sides. The real feature, however, was the driving by Scott, whose speed was such that it prevented any great amount of playing by his opponents after he once reached the ball with his racket. The total scores were as follows: Hilu beat Honokaa, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

Another match which attracted a good deal of attention was then arranged, in which Kohala and Puna were combined to lower the Hilu colors and attained the result they desired. Dr. Fred Irwin, of Oloa, and Eugene Horner, of Kohala formed the combination which took two straight sets from Scott and Conness, 6-4, 6-2. The playing was faster than in the previous match but the combination of Irwin's steadiness and excellent net work on the part of Horner won out. Horner's serve was also a factor which counted strongly for his team.

Another interesting set was between Irwin Scott and Horner, the former winning out 7-5. He had the set well in hand, when with the score at 5-2, when Horner made a sensational brace and evened the games at 5-5. Scott then commenced his back court driving and did especially good work whenever his opponent came to the net, winning out in the last game without allowing his opponent a single point.

From the present indications a team of Hilu players will play against Maui team in the near future. The players on the Valley Island are very anxious for a match and it is likely that it can be arranged for Saturday, March 1. Two double teams will probably represent Hilu to be taken from the following players: Irwin Scott, Conness, George Willifong and Dr. Fred Irwin. They will probably play at least two matches each, while the Maui players may play only one match per team and for his reason the best two sets out of three is likely to be the rule. It would appear as though even the Hilu players would have a good chance for at least an even break in such contests.

The man who attends strictly to his own business seldom has a headache the next morning.

The Myrtles, in second place and going strong, hit their top notch form last night and hung up a new alley record for total pinfall of three strings in the game against the Honolulu. They knocked down a total of 2661, while the Hons were only a jump behind, with all three of their strings well over the 800 mark. It was the best all round exhibition of the year, and although figures from the other islands are not available, it is believed that the pinfall sets a new Hawaiian record.

SPLITS. Some Bowling!!!

The Myrtles total pin-fall of 2661 is an island record.

The Honolulu had the short end of the luck but put up a fine showing notwithstanding.

"Haw! Haw! Haw!"—Haney.

"Look at those invalids bowl!"—Frans.

"You fellows make nearly as much noise as the Healanis."—White.

"That's what I like. Good lively games."—Winne.

Wisdom had both high score 220, and average 200, for the Myrtles.

Mills had both high score and average for the Honolulu 200 and 178 respectively.

COLLEGIANS WIN FOURTH

It begins to look as though the College of Hawaii had an invincible basketball team, for out of the four games so far played not one has been lost. Last night at the "Y" the Collegians defeated De Russy with a score of 16-11 after a very hard fight. De Russy put up a splendid game but was not able to defeat the Collegians.

De Russy came up confident and when the two teams lined up it did look as though De Russy had the advantage over the Collegians. The De Russy men were bigger and had a longer reach, but they lacked the speed that the Collegians showed. The speed of the Collegians team is its strong point and speed with a few other good points is enough to win any game.

It would be hard to pick any individual stars from the Collegians team as all played a good hard game. However, Marcellino at center was especially effective, and many good plays are credited to him. The Collegians guards, Pratt and Cousens, also did splendid work. They stuck to their men and it was very few baskets that the De Russy forwards threw. Starratt and Meinecke as forwards played a fast hard game and the opposing guards found it pretty hard to keep up with them.

For De Russy, Cam and Anderson, the two forwards, played a fine game and did much good work for the soldier team, Cam, while trying to recover the ball in the second half, took a bad fall and had his wind knocked out. He was right again in a few minutes and played the half out.

The line-up of the two teams was as follows:

College of Hawaii: Marcellino, center; Starratt, Meinecke, forwards; Pratt, Cousens, guards. De Russy: Cleveland, center; Anderson, Cam, forwards; Crawford, Carlson, guards. Johnson, referee.

On Saturday night at the "Y" the Collegians played another game with the Cubs. The Cubs have a fine team and the match should be a fight from start to finish. If the Collegians team keeps up the good work it is in a fair way to make as good a record as the All-Stars have.

Every man owes himself a living and it's up to him to discard his coat and display the busy signal.
